CHUDY PAPER OPENS GREEN ROOM

Green Room will help customers build a successful sustainability strategy

(BUFFALO, NY, February 24, 2020) -- Chudy Paper is hosting the grand opening of their new Green Room. The Green Room is a strategic showroom that will assist local businesses in identifying the main drivers for creating a sustainable plan of action. The Green Room will be open for scheduled tours in March, and will help businesses navigate through these times of transition; regarding paper, plastic, and their alternative options. Consumer attitudes are becoming more ecologically conscious, Chudy Paper's Green Room will ensure that Western New York businesses are offered the latest information, best advice, with the most effective training and sustainability plan.

Chudy Paper, distributor of choice in food service disposables, janitorial supplies, and industrial packaging is proud to announce that the Green Room will assist in strategically implementing sustainable solutions. Whether a business wants to create a sustainability strategy for social responsibility, image management, or to abide by the new laws and regulations; 'going green' is becoming a necessity in all industries. Moving away from styrofoam and single use plastic is becoming unavoidable for many industries. Chudy Paper is here to ensure that the conversion from single use plastic; to the available alternatives, is done in an efficient and effective manner, utilizing education.

Frank Michalski: "Training and education are crucial in understanding how the green initiative will suit your business. With circumstances such as the Bag Ban, Chudy Paper is looking to lead the charge in sustainable solutions."

The Green Room will display sustainable opportunities that will interest most local businesses. With the new laws and regulations, many questions will surface.
